Sensible Educator.

The proposition to do away with the annual examinations of pupils in the public schools has been considerably discussed of late, and the arguments are decidedly in favor of the change One of the boldest champions of the proposed innovation upon established custom is Joseph Leggett, Deputy Superintendent of Schools for San Francisco whom the Alta indorses as one of the best educators of the State, a man who understands the profession of teaching, scientifically speculatively and practically He is not bound down to particular and specific processes because they have been adopted and pursued for months, or years, or a life time but believes in looking at and estimating modes and process s of teaching from rational and practical standpoints and judging by results On the question of annual examinations Mr Leggett says

Why should we have annual examinations at all The question startles most ears and why? Because we have always had them at the close of the school year The habit of holding them has become venerable from antiquity, and I know I shall be accused of sacrelegious interference with a time honored custom in proposing to do away with them If we ask why should the annual examinations be kept up, we have for reply Because we have always had them If we ask why should they be abolished we have four replies First Because they are not needed Second Because they are expensive costing the Department at least $10,000 a year Third Because they render useless the school work of the last school month of every year and foster cramming and over work during that time Fourth—because they tend to produce excitement and lead to over exertion on the part of pupils at a time when they are wearied by the work of the whole year Fifth—Because if they were abolished many teachers, who under the present system cannot be induced to abandon the practice of cramming, for the examination—because they are as they believe to be judged by the result of it—could be induced to do some teaching in the classes If I am asked how pupils could be promoted without these examinations, I answer promote them at any time of the year when their proficiency and the classification of the school would permit How I believe it would be best to do it on examination duly made by thoroughly qualified inspectors, such as I recommended the appointment of in my last annual report But if we are not ready for that then on the examination of the teacher the Principal and the Superintendent or his Deputy

There is no one season of the year, so far as my observation goes at which the minds of children ripen or mature—no particular month out of the twelve in which they become fully ripened and fit for the harvest I believe the monstrous attempt to put children of widely varying physical and mental powers through the same mill in the same time has worked infinite and irreparable mischief to many minds

Peruvian Traditions of the Flood

According to a Peruvian legend, two brothers escaped from a great deluge that overwhelmed the world by ascending a mountain that floated upon the flood When the waters had retired they found themselves alone in the world and having consumed all their provisions they went down into the valleys to seek for more food Whether they were successful in their search the tradition does not say but if not, then surprise must indeed have been agreeable when on returning to the hut which they had built by the mountain, they found food ready prepared for them by unknown hands Curious to know who their benefactors could be they took counsel together and finally agreed that one should hide himself in the hut, while the other went into the valley The brother who remained concealed himself carefully and his patience was soon rewarded by seeing two aras with the face of a woman who immediately set about preparing a meal of bread and meats But it was not long before the aras became aware of the presence of the concealed brother and they instantly essayed flight but the man seized one of them and she afterwards became his wife By her he had six children three sons and three daughters from whose union sprang the tribe of the Canaris whose descendents to this day hold the ara in great veneration

"The Peruvians were acquainted with the Deluge and believed that the rainbow was the sign that the earth would not again be destroyed by water" This somewhat startling announcement was made by Lord Kingsborough, and he shows that there can be no reasonable doubt on the subject in an eminently characteristic manner "This is plain, he says from the speech which Mango Capac, the reputed founder of Peruvian Empire, addressed to his companions on beholding the rainbow rising from a hill —Bancroft's Native Races

The Wonders of a Flea.

When a flea is made to appear as large as an elephant, we can see all the wonderful parts of its formation, and are astonished to find that it has a coat of armor much more complete than ever warrior wore, and composed of strong polished plates fitted over each other, each plate covered like a tortoise shell, and where they meet hundreds of strong quills project like those on the back of a porcupine and hedge hog There is the arched neck, the bright eye, the transparent cases, the piercers to puncture the skin, a sucker to draw away the blood, six long jointed legs, four of which are folded on the breast, all ready at any moment to be thrown out with tremendous force for that jump which bothers one when they want to catch him, and at the end of each leg hooked claws to enable him to cling to whatever he alights upon A flea can jump a hundred feet, and he can draw a loads two hundred times his own weight

You Will be Wanted.

Take courage, my lad What if you are but an humble obscure apprentice—a poor, neglected orphan—a scoff and a by word for the thoughtless and gay, who despise virtue in rags because of its tatters? Have you an intelligent mind untutored though it be? Have you a virtuous aim, a pure desire, an honest heart? Depend upon it some of these days you will be wanted. The time may be long deferred—you may be grown to manhood, and you may even reach your prime ere the call is made, but virtuous aims, pure desires, and honest hearts are too few not to be appreciated —not to be wanted Your virtue shall not always hide you as in mantle—obscurity shall not always veil you from the multitude Be chivalric in your combat with circumstances Be active, however small your sphere of action. It will surely enlarge with every moment and you will have continued increment.

—An eloquent lawyer of Chicago, not long ago sought to enforce his appeal to a high minded jury by a sentiment from Scripture He did not know much Scripture, but he felt tolerably safe on touching upon the commandments so his speech was something of this wise "On that dreadful day, when the tables of stone were handed down to Moses from on high, amidst the thunders of Sinai, emblazoned on them in letters of fire was the dreadful injunction, 'Lead us not into temptation.'" Strange to say, not more than one person in the court-room seemed to notice the inaccuracy, judge, jury, and spectators were solemn as mutes, and to this day the eloquent lawyer does not know the difference between the ten commandments and the Sermon on the Mount —Chicago Tribune

— A lamp chimney may be made almost indestructible by putting it in a vessel of cold water over the fire, and letting it remain until the water boils. It will be found that boiling toughens in this case.

☞ The circulation of the TRIBUNE is double that of any paper published in Alameda county.

THE Boston Transcript in an unguarded hour asserted that "life is a struggle for existence" in Santa Barbara, because of the ferocity of the "mosquitos, bugs and sand-flies." In a brief paragraph of about three-quarters of a column, the Santa Barbara Press denies the vile slander and says that the only annoyance experienced by new-comers in that town, is from fleas; and that after a short time they learn how to avoid these pests. But the editor neglects to say that they accomplish this latter feat by taking the steamer for San Francisco.

THE telegraph announces the death of Hon. Benjamin P. Avery, Minister of the United States to China. The sad intelligence comes through the State Department, and is probably authentic, although no particulars have been received. Mr. Avery for many years has occupied a leading position among the the literati of California. He was at at one time the chief editor of the Bulletin, and he surrendered the editorial chair of the Overland Monthly to accept the appointment of Minister to China. Failing health rather than a desire for political honors influenced him to leave the walks of literature. Nearly every number of the Overland, since his departure, has contained something from his brilliant pen. Mr. Avery had many warm personal friends in Oakland who will sincerely mourn his death.

THE festive hoodlum bids fair to get control of the big city across the bay. He pervades the place like a pestilence, and there seems to be no remedy that will stay his progress. Imprisonment and fine have lost their terror for this class of villians. There is one punishment which ought to be tried before the respectable citizens turn out en masse and adorn the lamp posts with the vile carcasses of the hoodlums wherever found. Let the whipping post be erected and give them a taste of the lash. Bare their backs and scourge them mercilessly for every offense committed by them. Let sickly sentimentality and erroneous ideas of humanity no longer stand between these scoundrels and the only punishment which they richly deserve, and which they will soon learn to dread. Until the efficacy of this method of dealing with the hoodlum element has been tried and proved ineffectual, we shall steadily oppose the indiscriminate massacre of this class of offenders. Let us at least try the civilizing influence of the lash.

THE TRIBUNE last evening referred to the action of the Council in relation to the blockaded portion of Fourteenth street, between Broadway and Franklin. We animadverted somewhat upon the course of Mr. Blake, who claims a joint ownership with Mr. Moffit, in the street. Mr. Blake called upon us this morning to explain his side of the controversy. He states that Blake & Moffit have a legal title to the whole of that portion of Fourteenth street in question; that they stand ready to dedicate one-half of the street to the city, without compensation, provided the owners of the property on the southerly line of the street will pay a reasonable price for the other half; or they do not object to have the street opened in the manner prescribed by law. Mr. Blake admitted that the blockade of this fine thoroughfare was a public nuisance but he maintains that he ought not to be compelled to pay for improving the property of other people—a proposition of justice that is incontrovertible. One thing is certain, the street ought to be opened. If Messrs. Blake & Moffit's injuries are greater than the benefits they will receive by reason of the improvements, they should of course be paid

MARKET STREET DEPOT.

Some time ago there was a consultation between members of the Board of Supervisors and some of the railroad magnates, in relation to a station at the foot of Broadway, but the result of the confab has not transpired. It is more than probable that the railroad people have the matter under advisement, whether for long or short, remains to be seen. One thing is certain, the Market street depot is exceedingly inconvenient at all times, but vastly more so during the winter season. A temporary stopping place at the foot of Broadway without any depot building, would be an improvement upon the present arrangement. The ways of the Railroad Company are mysterious and past finding out, and the public generally learn what they are going to do, in relation to any matter in which the company is interested, after it has been done. It must be apparent to any one who will devote a little time to the consideration of the subject that great changes in the system of passenger transportation between Oakland and San Francisco are bound to be effected in the near future. Motives of economy, if nothing else, will produce these changes. When there is a depth of water at the mouth of our harbor sufficient to admit the large sea-going vessels, what object will there be in maintaining three miles of bridge, which requires constant repairing and complete renewing every few years? At the foot of Market street or adjacent thereto, slips and docks to correspond with those upon the San Francisco side will be built; depot buildings and warehouses will be erected, and in place of the present line of steam cars through Seventh street, we shall have horse-cars. At the foot of our Market street will also center the various lines of street cars, and the passengers for Alameda and East Oakland will be carried over the First street line. By this arrangement, the Company will no longer be compelled to carry large numbers of people from one end of the city to the other [illegible]. It is said that the cost of running [illegible] trains is much greater than the [illegible] of running the boats, so that an [illegible] saving in several directions will [illegible] accomplished by making this change. [illegible], or something near, is the programme of the future, so far as the passenger traffic is concerned, there can be [illegible] doubt; but, in the meantime, [illegible], even if temporary, at [illegible] Broadway.

[illegible] WOMAN. [illegible]

THE "TRIBUNE'S" CIRCULATION.

The unexampled success of the TRIBUNE has very naturally aroused a spirit of jealousy in its cotemporaries, who imagine that the TRIBUNE encroaches upon their journalistic domains. This contemptible spirit of envy is manifested in many different ways, and are scarcely worthy of mention. Nor would we refer to these disagreeable matters now but for the fact that the Transcript has been bold enough to attempt by insinuation to deceive the public in regard to a matter—the extent of the TRIBUNE'S circulation — which personally interests every one of our patrons, and the business public generally. The following characteristic paragraph appeared in one of the local columns cover which the editor, Mr. Bishop, has no control:

> When a concern commences to go under, then it commences to whistle to keep up courage. The unfledged bantling,(?) which scatters a few papers each evening along Broadway, presents its frozen cheek to the public, and undertakes to make its few readers believe that it really has a decent circulation, and has the audacity to lie about its neighbors. The TRIBUNE may have a larger circulation than the Press at the Point, but we doubt it, and Barter will testify that it has not. Go slow, youngsters—you wont live a day longer by blowing; besides nobody believes a word of your brag.

It will be noticed that the writer of the above extract took good care not even to intimate that the circulation of that paper equals that of the TRIBUNE, and yet he had the means of knowing the relative circulation of the two papers.

The TRIBUNE has, on several occasions, proposed to allow a public examination and comparison of its subscription books and lists with those of its cotemporaries, but neither of them dares to comply with the proposition. We have frequently asserted that the circulation of the TRIBUNE was nearly double that of either the News or Transcript. We now assert that the bona fide daily circulation of this paper is THREE TIMES that of the Transcript, and stand ready to back this assertion with any amount of coin the proprietors of that paper may desire to put up—the matter to be decided by disinterested parties, or by the affidavit of the Transcript's pressman, who knows the exact circulation of both papers for the last year.

The proposition is made to Mr. Bishop, the editor and publisher, and not to any beetle-browed spitoon cleaner, or other irresponsible lackey, who may be hanging about the Transcript establishment.

The truth of the matter is, the Transcript does not issue three hundred papers daily to regular bona fide subscribers, And yet the advertising public who patronize that sheet are laboring under the delusion that they are getting their money's worth. As a matter of fact an advertisement in the TRIBUNE is worth just exactly three times as much as in the Transcript.

We regret that we have been forced to make this damaging expose of our contemporary's limited sphere of usefulness, but find our justification in the cowardly attack made upon the TRIBUNE by the Transcript this morning, and quoted above.

THE irresponsible party, whom Mr. Bishop allows to degrade the columns of the Transcript with his vapid utterances, croaks this morning about "unfledged banthngs." As the party in question belongs to the buzzard or carrion-crow species, and because his "boss" is a goose which patiently submits to being plucked, he doubtless imagines that everybody is provided with feathers. If Bishop would wring the neck of this bird of prey, he would save money by the transaction, as well as improve the reputation of his sheet.

THE Mayor, Tax Collector and City Clerk have concluded to follow the suggestions advanced by the TRIBUNE, and let the publication of the delinquent tax list to the lowest bidder. This is another saving which the TRIBUNE has effected for the tax-payers of Oakland. By submitting this work to competition the city will save several hundred dollars.

500 ROLLS OF THE BEST CHECKERED Contract Matting, slightly damaged, to be sold at 8, 10 and 12½ cents per yard, also, a new line of Dry Goods, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Shoes, etc., just arrived and for sale at remarkably low prices, at the Great Eastern Auction House, corner of Broadway and 8th.

Masonic Notice.

There will be a stated meeting of Alameda Chapter No. 36, R. A. M., this evening at 7½ o'clock.

Police Court.

There were but a few cases disposed of in the Police Court, and they were all of a trivial character.

City Marshal's Report.

During November, the City Marshal collected $8,339 42 for sewer taxes, and $149,087 07 for general taxes.

The Teachers' Examination.

The City and County Boards commenced the examination, this morning, of applicants of teachers' positions.

University Items.

There was no drill yesterday, owing to the inclemency of the weather.

The Classes of '76 and '77 will hold their class union on Thurspay next.

City Treasurer's Collections, Etc.

On the first of November, there were $53,926 47 in the city treasury; amount received since then, $219,486 80; disbursements, $104,017 10; amount on hand, $167,396 17.

Recovered and Restored.

Our very efficient police force have, by strenuous efforts, succeeded in recovering stolen property the past month, to the amount of two umbrellas and a little breastpin that appeared not to have been much lost.

Debate.

The discussion as to whether universal suffrage "is compatible with a Republican Government," came off in San Francisco on Monday evening, and E. G. Purnell, of this city, carried away the laurels.

Thanksgiving Donations.

The Treasurer of the Ladies' Relief Society of Oakland thankfully acknowledges the following liberal donations from the churches named: First Baptist Church, union meeting, $63 50; St. Paul's Parish, $55 55; East Oakland Methodist Church, union meeting, $13 60, making a total of $132 65.

A Question of Circulation.

The TRIBUNE circulates three copies to where the Transcript issues one; or, in other words, the circulation of the TRIBUNE is three times as large as that of the Transcript, and, as we have before stated, the combined circulation of the News and Transcript do not equal that of the TRIBUNE. If there be any who doubt the statement, let them compare the books of the respective newspaper establishments.

United for Life.

At the residence of Gen. O. H. La Grange, in this city, on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. John Kimball, of San Francisco, joined in the bonds of holy matrimony, P. A. Hinckley, of Centerville, to Miss Lizzie La Grange. Oakland has lost one of its most efficient, accomplished and popular public school teachers by this "untimely taking off." Miss La Grange has been for many months past a teacher in the Alice-street Grammar School, and was highly esteemed by her pupils.

More Music.

Another splendid number of Peters' Household Melodies has come to hand filled with songs, by Hays, Danks, and other eminent musical composers. It is surprising how cheaply music can be purchased by taking Peters' publication. Household Melodies furnish songs for the vocalists; Peters' Parlor Music is a collection of easy dance music and La Creme de la Creme is filled with difficult piano music. This gives all an opportunity to choose. The price of either of the monthly publications is $4 per year, or 50 cents for a sample copy. The address is J. L. Peters, 843 Broadway, New York.

Messrs. Dunham & Lathrop's New Photographic Art Gallery, at No. 1157 Broadway, west side, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, near the City Hall, is now open to the public. This is the only photographic establishment on the Pacific Coast, fitted up in first-class style, where everything is on the ground floor, therefore dispensing with an "elevator" or stairs. Every style of work known in the business is here executed in admirable style, including the new promenade and gray vignettes. Special attention given to [illegible] Terms always reasonable.

THE GREAT HOUSE FOR DRY AND FANCY Goods, Shoes, Carpets, Oilcloths, etc., at the [illegible] Auction House, on the corner of [illegible] is, in consequence [illegible] complete stock which they have [illegible] New York and Philadelphia Auctions, [illegible] of the great depression in trade, [illegible] of the original cost.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.

Arrest of the Cowardly Villians—They Got Caught in their Own Trap.

Two cowardly assassins were taken into custody this morning in this city. The facts connected with their arrest are these: In June last, an advertisement appeared in the Morning Call of San Francisco, stating that young ladies would be taught the science of telegraphy in a brief space of time, and then furnished with lucrative situations. Two ladies in West Oakland, as well as several others, were swindled by the party who caused the advertisement to be inserted. His name is James Chaste; or at least, this is what he called himself.

The facts regarding his dishonest course was communicated to the San Francisco Chronicle, which paper detailed the present city editor of the TRIBUNE to investigate the case. After looking into it carefully, Chaste was found to be a fraud of the first water, and so published in the Chronicle of the 3d of July last. The dishonest young man, the bogus Superintendent of telegraphy, who had his field of operations at No. 868 Mission street, immediately fled the city, or kept himself in some secluded place. The expose was too much for him. His skipping out of the city was announced in the same paper the next day, July 4th, and it was supposed that the matter there ended; but not so, for about two months ago, the Chronicle office received a letter, postmarked St. Louis, which purported to come from a Mrs. Browne. It intimated that Chaste, under the pretext of teaching her daughter telegraphing, had seduced the young lady. In it, inquiry was made for the person who wrote the articles for the Chronicle, as it was of the utmost importance that he should be seen to give information regarding Chaste. A similar letter was received from Sacramento, subsequently. The information sought was freely given by the Chronicle office, it evidently thinking that it was aiding the cause of justice in so doing.

Subsequent information received, makes it appear that Chaste wrote both these letters. On Wednesday last a letter reached the city editor of the TRIBUNE, stating that a Mrs. Browne desired to see him in San Francisco, but no place of meeting was designated. On Friday, a villainous looking young man, called with a note addressed to the office asking for the address of the city editro. The latter party met the errand-man, who, being questioned closely, stultified himself, first saying that the note was handed him at the California Theater on the previous evening, by a lady, and subsequently saying that it was handed to him the same morning on Market street.

He was allowed to depart, not much attention being paid to the message. On Sunday a letter reached the city editor through the postoffice saying that Mrs. Browne, and a Mrs. General Warren desired to see him regarding the rascalities of Chaste; that he would call upon the daughter of the former at the Galt House, No. 632 Market street, Room 13, San Francisco, at 4 o'clock; that it would be an act of great kindness to call there and recognize the villain, but to keep the fact from him so that the police might take him into custody.

The call was made as requested, but with much caution. Chaste was found there, who passed himself off as Mrs. Browne's son. One man was hidden behind the door of room "thirteen," and another behind a wardrobe therein. A plot had been formed to take the life of the writer then, but it was so bunglingly carried out that it failed.

The conspirators, headed by Chaste, seemed not to have been satisfied with their San Francisco movement, but transferred their operations to this city. This morning they sent word to the TRIBUNE office that a gentleman from Sacramento desired to see its city editor at the Alta house. Repairing there, he found that rooms had been engaged. In one of them was a man calling himself Frank O'Niel. He was immediately taken in custody by the city editor of this paper, who subsequently turned him over to Mr. William Dewes who took him to the City Jail. The fellow evidently weighs over two hundred pounds and has a most villainous look. Mr. Dewes is entitled to much credit for his action in the matter, as he had a desperado to deal with.

At the request of the city editor, Chaste, who was in an adjoining room, was detained until he could be taken into custody. While under surveilance, he asked to go into the water-closet. It is thought while there that he threw several deadly weapons down the pipe. A claw-hammer was recovered. Both the culprits are now locked up in the city jail. Three other conspirators are at large. The proprietor of the Alta House and his employes, aided the authorities in custodizing the scoundrels and they are entitled to thanks for the part they played in securing two cut-throat villains who had hired rooms for the express purpose of committing a cold-blooded murder.

MR. EMERSON'S LECTURE.

Oakland Judged from an Eastern Standpoint—A Masterly Effort by One of our Old Citizens.

Notwithstanding the heavy rain-storm which prevailed last night, Mr. Emerson was greeted by an audience composed of the most wealthy, learned, and appreciative of our citizens, who completely filled Dietz Hall, some even standing in the entry. Mr. Emerson's audacious advertising, and the assurances of his old friends had raised the very highest expectations, and the audience were evidently determined not to surrender to the speaker; but he had not spoken more than five minutes before the entire assemblage seemed to say, "we give it up." Mr. Emerson spoke one hour and a half, and we did not see a single person leave the hall, all were held in wrapt attention till the close. The lecturer had promised the people of Oakland a great deal—some thought too much altogether—but he gave us even more than he promised. His delivery is characterized by an utter abandonment to his subject, and it does not seem to require the slightest effort for him to pitch his voice, of wonderful flexibility and power, on any key, rising in an instant from the deepest bass to the lightest tones of wit and raillery. And his style of composition is equally varied. He reasons by means of rigid logic, by illustrations—some of them droll enough—by wit, sarcasm and, above all, by forcible gesture. So far as we know, the lecture gave universal satisfaction, and if tens of thousands were published for general circulation, they would benefit Oakland immensely. We understand this is to be done as soon as possible, though Mr. Emerson tells us it will take some little time to write out the extemporized portions of his speech, which was certainly brilliant and grand.

MAIDS AND MASTERS.

More Mothers-in-Law—Fourteen Manufactured in One Brief Day—Some Poetical Effusions Commemorative of the Glorious Event.

Seven marriage licenses in one day! That is what was stated in yesterday's TRIBUNE, and it was true. Our statistical editor upon being apprised of this, with great surprise and much consternation, convulsively grasped the astounding fact and earnestly commenced to wrestle with it by figuring up the prospective population of Oakland based upon such an interesting brightening up of the hitherto dull marital market.

To him, it was far more cheering intelligence than the encouraging advices regarding the recent great enhancement in Consolidated Virginia or any other popular mining stock. He found, according to minute calculation, that there would be at least fourteen mothers-in-law in and around Oakland to pass maternal opinions upon many little cherubs between now and the advent of next Thanksgiving day.

Being a provident family man, and courteous to a nicety, he lent his water-proof coat, rubber sandals, silk umbrella and weather-beaten plug hat to our staid society editor who is a confirmed bachelor. The latter rapidly repaired through the drenching rain-fall to the County Clerk's office and commenced investigating the records. He there found that one Glover (James) had got his Hyde (Sarah Elizabeth), and that Miss Dickson (Alice L.) took Peters (Pearl L.), while Miss Brooks (Emma) joined Stearns (C. A.)

One of the assistant clerks said he would write some poetry on marriage, and have it bound up with the records. He commenced:

> "Cupid makes cupidity,
> Marriage is stupidity."

The critics present meekly told him that the metre and philosophy were all right, but that it would be policy for him to take a fresh start on another strain. Then he strained thusly:

> May the Angel who keeps the records of earth,
> Write lovingly down on his scroll,
> "Wedded to Sallie, the bride of his hand,
> Wedded to Nimrod, the love of her soul."

Our clerical poet was highly praised for his last brilliant effusion, and he then started off for one of the seven weddings. While he was gone to do a friend honor, his literary labors were extended by a brother clerk after the following fashion:

> Not a laugh was heard, nor a joyous note,
> As our friend to the bridal we hurried,
> Not a wit discharged his farewell shot
> As the bachelor went to be married.
>
> We married him quietly to save his fright
> Our heads from the sad sight turning,
> And we sighed as we stood by the lamp's dim light,
> To think he was not more discerning.
>
> To think that a bachelor, free and bright,
> And shy of the sex we found him,
> Should there at the altar, in the shades of night,
> Be caught in the snare that bound him.
>
> Few and short were the words he said,
> Though of cake and wine partaking,
> And he hastened home from the scene of dread,
> While his knees were awfully shaking.
>
> Slowly and sadly we led him down,
> As a lamb is led from the slaughter—
> The handsomest bachelor of this little town,
> Now wedded to Oakland's fair daughter.

When the first poet returned to his post, this morning, we asked him how the little affair had passed off. He blandly said: "Cupid forged the beautiful links of the golden chain which strongly bind two loving hearts as one, and as the happy hours chased each other rapidly away on velvet tiptoe, the gay throng, unheeding their speedy flight, continued the enchanting festivities till the gray dawn came creeping slowly over the distant hills to warn the merry revellers that breakfast time was fast approaching, and that another ten hour's of substantial work was ahead, when they all hied hurriedly away to their respective homes."

Third District Court.

The Court met again this morning.

In the case of L. Stone vs. A. W. Brodt et al. (the San Leandro School case), the demurrer to the plaintiff's complaint was sustained and the application for a peremptory writ of mandate was denied.

The case of Tipple vs. Gordon was set for argument on Friday next.

California Water Company vs. Teodra Peralta et al.—Set for same day.

Myers et al. vs. John Kearney—On trial.

An Outrage.

The charge lately preferred against Mary Campbell for larceny, seems to have been dictated by malice, if her say so be correct. There was nothing to show, even in the remotest degree, that she was in any way connected with the missing property. She was honorably acquitted by the Police Court, yet she feels that a stain rests upon her character by reason of the arrest. It seems to be a great hardship that any one should be taken into custody under such circumstances.

The Thieves.

The burglars and sneak thieves continue to prowl around. On Sunday evening last, some of the former, entered the house of John C. Marsh, corner of Eighth and Castro streets, and carried away nearly a thousand dollars in coin and some valuable jewelry.

Some thief got away with a valuable gold watch yesterday from Buehren's jewelry store on Broadway.

Ah Ching, a Chinese thief, stole some iron from Dalziel's store. He is in custody.

LADIES' HAIR DRESSER.—Miss Cradock, Room 21, Central Block, over Schreiber's furniture store, has always on hand a large stock of hair. Weaving, curling and combing made up. Ladies attended at their residences.

GRAND CENTRAL HOTEL, Twelfth street, Oakland. First-class accommodations for families and guests. HENRY WEAVER.

SINGLE SINNERS.

Rich Widowers and Affluent Bachelors—How They Flirt and Avoid Marriage.

Rich widowers and affluent bachelors! How many of them are in Oakland! Only think of it, girls—single girls, pretty girls, marriageable girls! What a theme to write upon. But my say shall be short and sweet, and to the point. Lend ears, so that you may hear. This is what I have to say, and it is based on close observations:

THE SO-CALLED RICH WIDOWERS

Are extremely conceited. They fancy every girl or woman who looks at them is deeply smitten with them, and have only to offer themselves and be gratefully accepted, whether they have one or a dozen encumbrances attached to their royal domains. They forget that no young lady could be pleasantly situated under such circumstances, or be happy with a man whom she considers only as a necessary appendage to the wealth she has married, so as to have a chance of decorating herself through it and for a while creating a furore, merely to excite the envy of those who wish for gorgeous apparel.

THE FIRST SENSATION

Over and she becomes ennuied, distraite and heartily wishes herself back in her quieter, humbler home where love and peace reigned. There are other men who are so far lacking in mental calibre, stamina and moral courage, that though anxious for a wife, they only dare to visit a conjugal friend by stealth, lest sister Buzzfuzy, grandmother Grundy or their own children should hear of it and object, as though any one who had their interests at heart, could object to their forming

A SECOND ALLIANCE,

If suitable, knowing "that it is not good for man to live alone," and that the sexes were created for each other. A man should dare to do as he pleases, if he breaks no moral law, and not live the life of a recluse against his inclination, merely because some selfish designing persons are averse to it. Women love to see moral courage and firmness in a man, and would rather see him even a "leetle rakish" than a pusillanimous nincompoop, controlled by all belonging to him, and having no mind of his own. A woman soon becomes disgusted, and tired of seeing such a biped around, be he never so suave, smiling and cordial to her, as she knows he comes sub rosa, and in fear and trembling.

AS TO THE BACHELORS,

They are a set of braggarts, and pride themselves in being engaged to two or three ladies at once, "as the sweet creatures feel so happy when affianced." And it is so easy to quarrel and break with them, and pick up two or three in their stead. Then it is such a pleasure to have a variety of dispositions and characters to deal with, a fine study of human nature and sentiment. It is no wonder that our sex brings man to his senses at the muzzle of the pistol so frequently, or seeks retribution in some other violent manner! When man ceases to look upon

WOMAN AS A TOY,

A plaything to amuse his idle hours, and regards her as an equal and companion, and takes one of a suitable age as a partner, then, and not till then, will there be less trouble, sin and misery. Then peace and harmony will reign, for, while on earth, none of us expect "perfect immunity from care or trouble;" and women would do well to remember, they had better marry a man of only moderate means whom they can love and respect, than a too dear Crœsus, whom in time they would despise either for his mental or moral shortcomings, and know they are experiencing a foretaste of Hades.

LITTLE MOLLIE.

Schofield on Indian Management.

Major-General Schofield, commanding the military division of the Pacific, in his report, makes the following suggestions in regard to the management of the Indians: "It is with much reluctance that I have been forced to believe that the transfer of the Indian Bureau to the War Department is a necessity of the public service. Events of the past few years have demonstrated the utter inability of the Civil Department of the Government to keep the necessary control over wild Indians. The effort to control them through civil agents while at peace on reservations, and then turn them over to the army when they leave them or commit acts of hostility, has proved, as might have been expected, a most efficient mode of producing war. The officers of the army are compelled to stand idly by, powerless for good, while their promises to the Indians made at the end of previous hostilities are being violated, and the dictates of wisdom, justice and common honesty are disregarded in the daily treatment of the helpless savages, who have no possible means of redress but escape from the reservations. It is an entire mistake to suppose that this proposed transfer necessarily means a departure from the peace policy, which is dictated alike by wisdom, justice and humanity, which has been adopted by the present Executive, and is not likely to be abandoned by any of his successors, unless under the influences of new surroundings. Military management means merely an economical, just, uniform and consistent execution of the Executive will. It means permanence in the mode of dealing with the Indians through the agency of life-tenure officers who have spent most of their active life among them, who know their character and wants, and who have every possible motive for dealing with them wisely and justly. It means to do away with the constant fluctuations of policy, continued disturbance of pre-existing arrangements, and frequent disregard of treaties or promises, which have led them to an almost total disbelief in the faith of the Government. Military management means peace and security, giving even greater opportunity for the labors of Christians to civilize and instruct the Indians."

A New Elevator.

Mr. Weaver, of the Grand Central Hotel, has just erected a new hydraulic engine for working the hotel elevator. It is a great improvement on the old machine, working safely and smoothly, and rendering accidents out of the question. The engine is one of Hinckle's patent, manufactured in San Francisco, and cost $1,000. Mr. Weaver is determined to have every new improvement for Oakland's favorite hotel, as is evinced by his enterprise in this instance.

Large Horse.

For a few days past there has been seen on our streets, a horse driven by Mr. Harris, of the Grand Central Hotel stables, which has attracted considerable attention on account of his immense size and handsome proportions. He stands over eighteen hands high, and weighs sixteen hundred pounds, and is only four years old. He was raised in Colusa county, and is the property of Mr. Thos. J. P. Lacy of this city.

Choice Flowers.

At the Maple Leaf Nursery, East Oakland, may be found a very large variety of choice roses, and other plants. The proprietor, Mr. Newsom, is constantly receiving new varieties of bulbs and flowery plants of every kind at his spacious grounds, opposite Tubb's Hotel.

A FRIGHTFUL EXAMPLE.

The Early Teachings of a Once Pious Citizen—A Defense of an Anti-Theological Writer.

In my younger days I was not allowed to read the works of Voltaire; consequently I was unable to know of his character except by the hearing of the ear. From time to time, when various ministers wished to hold up to the audience some frightful character, his would be introduced. The same custom still continues, and it is not long since I heard a clergyman of good, general intelligence, refer to him as a frightful example. Facts in a man's life are the only just basis for judgment. Allow me to occupy your columns in doing an act of justice to the character of one whose life was spent at the apex of superstition, bigotry and persecution. I will quote largely of his own words and standard authorities in regard to him. Let us examine his religious opinions. He says: "True religion is the adoration of the Supreme, only infinite eternal Being—the former of the world Who gave motion and life." Let us hear him in regard to morals: "Confucius found morals in the hearts of all mankind." "Morality proceeds from God, like light, our superstitions are only darkness." "I say to you, continue to cultivate virtue, to be beneficent; to regard all superstition with horror, or with pity; but adore with me the design which is manifest in all nature, and consequently the author of that design." Let us hear him still further in regard to a Supreme Being: "Is He immense without quantity, and without quality? I know not; all I know is that we must adore Him, and be just." "All proves that there is a power which acts within us, without consulting us." "You exist, therefore there is a God." "Atheism is the vice of some intelligent men. Superstition is the vice of fools, and hypocracy is the vice of knaves." Let us hear what another says of him: "Nothing, however, acquired him greater renown than his strenuous efforts in behalf of Protestants. He even built a Christian church at Ferney, which he dedicated to God, but which the ecclesiastical authority refused to recognize and consecrate." "He had even been a decided Deist, and rebuked the philosophy of his age, which tried to banish God from the universe." "The acknowledged patriarch of letters, he omitted no exertion to maintain his place and continue the inspiration which he had given the literature of his age." "Voltaire's last act performed in his eighty-fifth year was a visit to Paris. His carriage was drawn by the people." "He may be said indeed to have been drowned in an ocean of applause or to have died of the fatigues of his own apotheosis." Among his latest words were these, "I die worshipping God, loving my friends, not hating my enemies, but detesting superstition." Thus far we find a record excelled by no saint that ever lived—equal to the teachings of the sermon on the mount, throwing a cloud of darkness over millions of professed Christians.

Let us follow him to his grave. "Impediments were raised by the French clergy to his decent burial in the parish where he expired," "The Government ordered the newspapers not to comment upon his death, which was the last kick it could give the dead lion." Had it been in our day, he would not have been buried in six years, and then have cursed the ground that held his dust and called it religion. Young people will ask why object to his burial? Why not let the newspapers say a word to his memory? Because my young friend, first, the Government was controlled by the church; second, this man for sixty years had been a living, active soul in the image of his Creator, day by day denouncing iniquity in the Church, and exalting righteousness among the people. You have heard of the inquisition by which detectives were sent through all Europe To express a word of free thought, and above all against the church, meant your arrest, imprisonment, banishment, death by torture, and fire, and the record is that over twenty millions of our fellow men have thus suffered by the infernal edict of that, that is called religion blasphemously in the name of God. Hear what this man said, and you will understand why they wished to be revenged upon his poor old bones.

"Does not your inquisition, which still remains, (1770), make reason nature and religion boil with indignation." "Great God if mankind should reduce to ashes that infernal tribunal, would they be unacceptable in Thy avenging eyes?"

This same inquisition still lives and to-day is throwing its poisonous miasma around the school house where you are gaining knowledge. Its back was broke by this man whose life I thus briefly review, but the carcass still crawls, and now it looks as though you, the little ones of our land, would be called upon to give the death blow. Let all parents who regard the welfare of their children read the works of M. De Voltaire. It will allow them to dip from a fountain of knowledge that will prepare them to fight bigotry, superstition and ignorance where ever they meet it. To eulogize Voltaire, would be like adding a drop of water to the ocean. He needs it not. Read and let your children read and learn what true religion is, i. e., to live a pure and moral life in adoration of the God of love, showing your heart by loving kindness to your fellow men day by day.

REDUCTION IN GAS.

Important to Landlords and Gas Consumers.

SAFETY AND ECONOMY.

OFFICE OAKLAND GASLIGHT CO., February 1, [illegible]

IN PURSUANCE OF THE POLICY [illegible] lowed by this Company since [illegible] viz.: to lower its rates as rapidly as [illegible] ranted by the growth of the city, the price of gas will be reduced on the

1st Day of March Next

—TO—

$4 25 PER 1,000 CUBIC FEET.

Considering the value of [illegible] limited use of gas, and the [illegible] the places of consumption.

Oakland will be the most cheaply lighted city in the Union

This price will leave no valid [illegible] use of any illuminant but coal gas [illegible] lines of the Company [illegible] which are now, and have been [illegible] laid, unproductive of income.

The advantages to be reaped by the public from Cheap Gas are—

1st.—A daily saving in the cost of [illegible] necessaries of life.

2d.—A decrease in the number of destructive fires caused by the use of the [illegible] oils of Petroleum.

3d.—A saving of human life by [illegible] stationary lights for brittle lamps.

4th.—The most convenient and [illegible] brought within the means of the most economical household.

However small the house, the [illegible] will be great. If insured, the rate of [illegible] be lessened; if not insured, the risk [illegible] be decreased.

This reduction can only be [illegible] the Company, by the accession of a sufficient number of new consumers [illegible] recompense for the lessening of [illegible] ceipts, and it will become [illegible] all consumers of gas, to induce their neighbors to adopt this light, in order that further reductions may be made in the future.

The attention of consumers is [illegible] rected to the use of gas for heating and cooking. In Europe and the Eastern cities it has been adopted [illegible] and its use is constantly extending.

It is to be hoped that this measure will be accepted in the spirit in which [illegible] applied it, and which has always characterized the Company, viz.:

That the Interests of Consumers and the Company are Identical.

The Company are constantly [illegible] all changes in modes of manufacture and distribution, and will at all times [illegible] self of any real improvement [illegible] to improve quality and lessen [illegible]

REDUCTION IN GAS.

Important to Landlords and Gas Consumers.

SAFETY AND ECONOMY.

OFFICE OAKLAND GASLIGHT CO.,
February 1, 1875.

IN PURSUANCE OF THE POLICY FOLlowed by this Company since its formation; viz: to lower its rates as rapidly as is warranted by the growth of the city, the price of gas will be reduced on the

1st Day of March Next

—TO—

$4 25 PER 1,000 CUBIC FEET.

Considering the value of coal and labor, the limited use of gas, and the distance between the places of consumption,

Oakland will be the most cheaply lighted city in the Union.

This price will leave no valid excuse for the use of any illuminant but Coal Gas, along the lines of the Company's mains, a large part of which are now, and have been since they were laid, unproductive of income.

The advantages to be reaped by the public from Cheap Gas are—

1st.—A daily saving in the cost of one of the necessaries of life.

2d.—A decrease in the number of destructive fires caused by the use of the volatile distillates of Petroleum.

3d.—A saving of human life by substituting stationary lights for brittle lamps.

4th.—The most convenient and safest light brought within the means of the most economical household.

However small the house, the economy will be great. If insured, the rate of premium will be lessened; if not insured, the risk of loss will be decreased.

This reduction can only be profitable to the Company, by the accession of a sufficient number of new consumers to compensate for the lessening of its current receipts; and it will become the interest of all consumers of gas, to induce their neighbors to adopt this light, in order that further reductions may be made in the future.

The attention of consumers is also directed to the use of gas for heating and cooking. In Europe and the Eastern cities it has been adopted to a great extent, and its use is constantly extending.

It is to be hoped that this movement will be accepted in the spirit which has inspired it, and which has always characterized the Company, viz.:

That the Interests of Consumers and the Company are Identical.

The Company are constantly advised of all changes in modes of manufacture and distribution, and will at all times avail itself of any real improvements which tend to improve quality and lessen price.

Badly Trained Husbands.

How many unhappy girls have paid dearly for the early upbringing of their young husbands, who, the first glamour of love passed, treat their wives as they were allowed to treat their sisters, and as they saw their fathers treat their mothers—carelessly, disrespectfully, with a total want of that considerate tenderness which is worth all the passionate love in the world. This, though they may pass muster outside as excellent husbands, never doing anything really bad, and possessing many good and attractive qualities, yet contriving somehow quietly to break the poor womanly heart, or harden it into that passive acceptance of pain which is more fatal to married happiness than even temporary estrangement. Anger itself is a safer thing than stolid, hopeless indifference.

The best husbands I ever met came out of a family where the mother, a most heroic and self-denying woman, laid down the absolute law, "Girls first." Not in any authority; but first to be thought of, as to protection and tenderness. Consequently, the chivalrous care which these lads were taught to show to their own sisters, naturally extended itself to all women. They grew up true gentlemen—gentle men—generous, unexacting, courteous of speech and kind of heart. In them was the protecting strength of manhood, which scorns to use its strength except for protection; the proud honesty of manhood, which infinitely prefers being loving and openly resisted, to being "twisted around one's finger," as mean men are twisted, and mean women will always be found ready to do it; but which, I think, all honest men and brave women would not merely dislike, but utterly despise.—Mrs. Craik.

—Coffee should be browned at least twice a week, and kept in air-tight canisters, and only ground just immediately before using. Pick the green coffee carefully over; shake it in a collender to free it from dust, and rub it in a cloth. While roasting stir it constantly; the moment the berry crackles and becomes crisp enough to pulverize, it is sufficiently roasted. Stir in a small piece of butter the size of a walnut, and put the coffee steaming hot into an air-tight canister. For making, put your ground coffee into a bowl with just sufficient cold water to moisten it; beat an egg, shell and all; mix it well through the coffee. Rinse your coffee-boiler out with boiling water; put in the coffee, and pour over it the required amount of boiling water. Let it boil fifteen minutes. When it begins to boil stir it frequently, and never leave it until the grounds sink. Pour a little from the spout, in order to remove the grounds that may have boiled into it, and pour it back into the pot. It is very much better if served without decanting it. Allow one tablespoonful of ground coffee for each person, and one for the pot, and add three pints of boiling water to seven spoonfuls of coffee.

—Infants are sometimes very restless at night, and it is generally owing either to cramming them with a heavy supper, tight night clothes, or being overheated by too many blankets. It may result from putting them to sleep too early. They should be kept awake until the family are going to rest and the house free from noise. Undressing and bathing will weary and dispose them for sleep, and the universal stillness will promote it. This habit, and all others, depend on the course pursued at first. Accustom them to regular hours. If they have a good sleep in the forenoon and afternoon it will be easy to keep them awake during the evening. It is right to offer them drink on going to bed, when young infants, and more solid, though simple food, after they are two or three months old; but they should never be forced to receive it. Never let anything but the prescription of a physician, in sickness, tempt the nurses to give them wine, spirits, or any drug to keep them asleep. Milk and water, whey, or thin gruel is the only fit liquor for little ones, even when they can run about. The more simple and light their food and drink, the more they will thrive.

—The model debtor has just turned up in Minneapolis, in the person of General W. D. Washburn. About a year ago the General made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, and according to the established custom his assets should have paid somewhere from ten to forty cents on the dollar. By some utterly unaccountable honesty somewhere, however, his debts have been paid in full and his assignees have restored him assets amounting to three hundred thousand dollars. The General will find no difficulty in getting such credit as he may want hereafter.

This grand result has been attained in the teeth of bitter opposition, waged against us by Piano agents who envied our success and who never lose an opportunity to misrepresent us, and the demand is rapidly increasing. Give us a call and compare our pianos and prices.
